(PRWEB) February 2, 2010 -- Lombard Global (www.lombardglobal.com), a growing management and investment banking consultancy focused on global strategy today announced it has signed an affiliate agreement with GROWTHINK, Inc., www.growthink.com, based in Los Angeles, to offer global midmarket investment banking services. Lombard Global leads with strategic solutions then follows with operational efforts.

Finance and capital issues are at the forefront of business decision-making, in good economic times and in difficult times. Companies who can get high-level strategic global advice and can then receive the capital necessary to execute that strategic advice are going to have a significant advantage over firms who only reap one benefit. The key to growing sustainable and high value-added jobs in the world economy is to turn technology or knowledge-based entities into viable businesses.

Lombard is in an even better position now to help brilliant companies grow which might otherwise have to defer because of the ongoing global credit problem. "This is a very strategic move for Lombard Global and its clients and partners. Investment banking provides tremendous value to them. Although the credit markets are still suffering, they are on their way back. Our formal affiliation with Growthink will exponentially enhance our ability to help the best entrepreneurs and great companies with great brands in traditional industries, grow or turnaround. As a result, we feel fortunate to have the opportunity to improve our clients business with the largest and most well-known group specializing in this space. I searched for a partnership that would best fit Lombard Global for a long time. The people at Growthink have tremendous experience- they have worked with over 2000 companies globally. They are hard-working, industrious and are a well-educated and talented group of folks. We're very excited for everyone associated with this relationship," said William Billeaud, Managing Partner of Lombard Global.

GROWTHINK, Inc. is a mid-market investment banking firm headquartered in Los Angeles with offices in New York, San Francisco and Seattle. Jeff Jones, Managing Partner of Growthink said, "I agree with Bill. The timing is perfect to grow internally throughout the USA with quality partners and brands like Lombard Global. We look forward to having a partner in one of the fastest growing states in the USA and in Dallas Ft. Worth, one of the largest metropolitan areas in the USA."

Lombard Global, based in Dallas - Fort Worth, USA, and with business partners in Europe, Asia and the Americas, is a global management and investment banking consultancy which focuses on global strategy, both top line and bottom line. We work with firms from all over the world who have existing global operations and those who are just beginning expansion outside their borders. Our work brings us to all corners of the world, including right here in the USA. Strategy is executed by the following service modules: market entry, investment banking, turnaround, technology and real estate. Lombard Global-International Business. Results. <sup>TM</sup>
